Carbondale Emergency Task Force (CETF) Seeks Volunteers to Support Seniors and Self-Quarantining Individuals

CARBONDALE, Colo. (April 1, 2020) – The Carbondale Emergency Task Force (CETF) today launches a drive to recruit volunteers to support the town’s seniors and growing number of self-quarantining individuals during the COVID-19 pandemic crisis.

The CETF, which was launched by the Town of Carbondale a week ago in response to the COVID-19 global pandemic crisis, is coordinating volunteer operations, which now includes a partnership with Valley Meals and More, an existing nonprofit that supports seniors in the community. The CETF seeks to recruit volunteers to work directly under Valley Meals and More so that operations can expand during the crisis.

Additionally, the CETF is promoting the service operated by Carbondale Rec Center staff, who are providing similar errands and care calls.

The CETF is providing the following information for potential volunteers and for those in need of urgent help:

1. For Volunteers
   The CETF is recruiting and managing volunteers who are healthy and able to provide assistance in three categories:
   1. Runners – individuals who make deliveries and other errands for the high-risk population to ensure that they have essential goods and stay safe.
   2. Care Callers – volunteers who place phone calls to high-risk individuals to check on their wellbeing, or just to say hello.
   3. Specialists – others who are able to contribute specific skills to one or more of the Task Force’s “lines of effort.”

   Community members interested in providing volunteer support should complete the volunteer questionnaire through the CETF webpage.

2. For Those in Need of Help
   The CETF is directing those in need to the following services:

   Valley Meals and More, a non-profit organization offering volunteer grocery and prescription pickup and care calls for seniors and high-risk individuals. Services available include volunteer
To request help, individuals can either complete the assistance request form, available at the CETF webpage, or contact Valley Meals and More director, Mary Kenyon, at 970-274-2632 or mary@valleymealsandmore.com.

The Town of Carbondale Rec Center offers the following services to quarantined, isolated and high-risk residents:

- Assistance in obtaining necessary medications
